The Pubs Code and Pubs Code Adjudicator

The Small Business, Enterprise and Employment (SBEE) Act 2015, which received Royal Assent in March 2015, requires the Secretary of State to introduce a statutory Pubs Code. The Code will govern the relationship between large pub-owning businesses (those that own 500 or more tied pubs) and their tied tenants. The Act also provides for a new independent Adjudicator to enforce the Code.

The Code and Adjudicator measures will be introduced through secondary legislation. A draft Pubs Code was published in June 2014 as part of the Government Response to the 2013 consultation on pub companies and tenants; and a revised version was published in November 2014 during Parliament's scrutiny of the SBEE Bill.

Further revisions have now been made to reflect changes made during the passage of the Act, and to take account of comments and information received. This consultation is in two parts. The first focuses on the Market Rent Only (MRO) option, including disputes arising in relation to the MRO procedure, and the waiver from MRO in return for significant investment; arrangements for rent assessments; and the Government's plans on parallel rent assessments.

The second part of the consultation, to be published next month, will cover:

- the type, timing and frequency of information to be provided to tenants by their pub-owning businesses – including the provision of rent proposals to prospective tenants and tenants who are renewing their agreements;
- repair and maintenance obligations under the Pubs Code;
- the types of agreement, such as genuine franchises and some short-term agreements and tenancies at will, that will be outside the scope of some or all of the Code;
- what happens to terms in agreements that are inconsistent with the provisions of the Code;
- enforcement of the Code – including the Government's proposals for the fee to take a case to the Adjudicator, how costs should be apportioned and which provisions of the Code will be arbitrable by the Adjudicator; and the maximum financial penalty that may be imposed following an investigation;
- the way that companies related to a landlord company (eg subsidiaries and parent companies) may be treated for the purposes of enforcement; and
- when a tenancy ends or when a rent assessment is concluded, how extended Code protection works when a pub is sold to a company outside of the Code.

Following consultation, both the Pubs Code and other regulations will be subject to the affirmative procedure, which means they will be subject to scrutiny and debate in both Houses of Parliament. The regulations apply to England and Wales.

The Government welcomes your views.

1. Foreword from Anna Soubry

Pubs are an important part of life in this country. They are the hub of local communities in both rural and urban areas. They play a part in the positive experience of many visitors to this country. Beer and pubs contribute £22 billion to UK GDP. So it is important that pubs can operate in an environment that is fair and that allows them to thrive.

Over the last decade, tied tenants have raised concerns that the sector has become more difficult to operate in. The key issue for them has been the unfairness of the relationships they have with their large pub-owning businesses.

Some positive changes resulted from the introduction of industry self-regulation but the measures did not go far enough. The Government consulted on a statutory Pubs Code and an independent Adjudicator and enshrined these in the Small Business, Enterprise and Employment Act which received Royal Assent in March 2015.

I would now like your views on how we implement these measures.

We need to ensure the new Pubs Code is fair and proportionate and can be enforced effectively. We must ensure that tied tenants of the largest pub-owning businesses should not be worse off than free-of-tie tenants. Finally, we must ensure these principles are delivered without placing undue burdens on businesses.

I want you to tell us if we have got the balance right. I want to hear from tied pub tenants, pub-owning businesses and their representatives. I want your views so that we can achieve a fair outcome for all. Please respond to this consultation and help us put the right legislation in place.

Minister of State for Small Business, Industry and Enterprise

2. Executive Summary

2.1 The Government is committed to supporting a healthy and flourishing pub industry. We believe that a healthy pub industry is one which benefits all those who work hard to keep the Great British Pub at the heart of our communities. Yet there have been longstanding concerns in the industry about the unfairness in the relationship between large pub-owning businesses and their tied tenants. This is based on extensive evidence gathered by four BIS Select Committee enquiries over the course of a decade, a government call for evidence in 2012, continuing correspondence from tenants facing hardship and the 2013 Pub Companies and Tenants consultation.

2.2 The measures in Part 4 of the Small Business, Enterprise and Employment (SBEE) Act were introduced to address these concerns. The Act received Royal Assent in March 2015 and places a duty on the Secretary of State to introduce a statutory Pubs Code by 26 May 2016. The Code will govern the relationship between large pub-owning businesses (those that own 500 or more tied pubs) and their tied tenants in England and Wales. The Act also provides for a new independent Adjudicator to enforce the Code.

2.3 Implementation of some measures in the Act, including the Pubs Code requires secondary legislation. A draft Pubs Code was published in June 2014, as part of the Government Response to the 2013 consultation on Pub Companies and Tenants; and a revised draft Code was published in November 2014 during Parliament's scrutiny of the SBEE Bill.

2.4 This consultation seeks views on the statutory Pubs Code and some of the measures to enforce it. The draft regulations can be found in Annex B.

2.5 We have adopted a proportionate approach – fulfilling the requirements in the Act that the Pubs Code must deliver the principles of fair and lawful dealing and that a tied tenant should not be worse off than a free-of-tie tenant. We have done so in a way that minimises as far as possible the new burdens being placed on businesses – both pub-owning businesses and tenants – and ensures that tied tenants do not receive any lower level of protection under the statutory Code than they currently have under the voluntary Industry Framework Code.

2.6 The consultation is being published in two parts within a month of each other.

2.7 This first document – on which comments are invited by 14 December 2015 – covers the Government's proposals for delivering one of the two principles of these reforms – that a tied tenant should be no worse off than a free-of-tie tenant. It details the proposed Code provisions on rent assessments and the option for tenants to request a Market Rent Only (MRO) offer and sets out the Government's position on parallel rent assessments.

2.8 Specifically, it:

- describes the circumstances in which a rent assessment under the terms of the Code will occur;
- sets out the circumstances that will trigger the MRO option, how the MRO option will work and how disputes in relation to the procedure will be resolved;
- explains how the Government proposes to permit a tenant to waive (or postpone) their right to a rent assessment – and therefore the right to request an MRO offer – in return for a significant investment in their pub; and

- explains why the Government has decided not to introduce the right for a tenant to receive a parallel rent assessment.

2.9 This part of the consultation seeks your views on these issues.

2.10 The second part of this consultation – to be published next month – will cover the remaining elements of the Pubs Code. It will seek views on:

- the type, timing and frequency of information to be provided to tenants by their pub-owning businesses – including the provision of rent proposals to prospective tenants and tenants who are renewing their agreements;
- repair and maintenance obligations under the Pubs Code;
- the types of agreement, such as genuine franchises, tenancies at will and short-term agreements of a defined length that will be outside the scope of some or all of the Code;
- what happens to terms in agreements that are inconsistent with the provisions of the Code;
- enforcement of the Code – including the Government’s proposals for the fee to take a case to the Adjudicator, how costs should be apportioned and which provisions will be arbitrable by the Adjudicator; and the maximum financial penalty that may be imposed following an investigation;
- the way that companies related to a landlord company (eg subsidiaries and parent companies) may be treated for the purposes of enforcement; and
- when a tenancy ends or when the rent assessment is concluded, how extended Code protection works when a pub is sold to a company outside of the Code.

2.11 The Government will use the responses to the consultation to help inform the secondary legislation. All the secondary legislation covering the statutory Pubs Code and its supporting legislative framework is subject to the affirmative procedure, and will therefore be debated both by the House of Commons and by the House of Lords following this consultation.

3. How to respond

3.1 This first part of the consultation will begin on 29 October 2015 and will run for six weeks. The final date for responses is 14 December 2015.

6. Rent Assessments

Provisions on the conduct of a rent assessment are set out in Regulations 8 to 11 in Part 3 of the Pubs Code (see Annex B).

6.1 The Pubs Code will provide around 13,000 tied tenants in England and Wales with increased transparency, fair treatment, and the right to request a rent assessment if they have not had one for five years. The Small Business, Enterprise and Employment (SBEE) Act 2015 stipulates that the Pubs Code must be consistent with the principles of (i) fair and lawful dealing by pub-owning businesses in relation to their tied tenants and (ii) that tied pub tenants should not be worse off than a free-of-tie tenant.

6.2 The Act states that the Code should be "about practices and procedures to be followed by pub-owning businesses in their dealings with their tied pub tenants" and that it may in particular "contain requirements as to the provision of information by pub-owning businesses to their tied pub tenants" and "impose other obligations on pub-owning businesses in relation to their tied pub tenants." Section 42(4)(b) provides that the Secretary of State may specify the circumstances in which pub-owning businesses – as part of their statutory obligations under the Pubs Code – will be required to provide a tied tenant with a rent assessment.

What is a rent assessment?

6.3 The concept of a 'rent assessment' is a central element of the statutory Pubs Code that needs to be defined so as to ensure the greatest possible clarity for tenants and pub-owning businesses.

6.4 Having a rent assessment will entitle an existing tenant to renegotiate their tied rent during the course of their agreement to reflect current trading. It will also entitle a tenant to request the offer of a Market Rent Only (MRO) agreement. The elements of the Pubs Code governing the circumstances in which a tenant may request an MRO offer; and for the negotiation and conclusion of MRO-compliant agreements are set out in Chapters 8 to 12 of this consultation document.

6.5 The timing of a rent assessment will determine how long a tenant whose pub-owning business has fallen outside the jurisdiction of the Code during the course of their agreement will continue to benefit from the extended Code protections under section 69 of the Act. The Pubs Code provisions on 'extended protection' for a tied pub tenant whose pub is sold by a 'Code company' to a 'non-Code company' will be discussed in detail in the second part of this consultation.

6.6 For all of these purposes, we intend the Pubs Code to describe a rent assessment in terms of a procedure, rather than a single fixed point in time.

6.7 This first consultation focuses only on the way a rent assessment should be defined.

6.8 The Government's proposals for the information that must be provided to the tenant as part of the rent review will be set out in the second part of the consultation.

Right to a rent assessment

6.9 Regulation 8 of the Pubs Code sets out the circumstances in which a pub-owning business must conduct a rent assessment. These are where the rent assessment is in connection with a rent review that is required under the terms of the tenancy agreement or licence; or where an assessment has been requested by the tenant. Regulation 8 entitles a tenant to make a written request for a rent assessment in the following circumstances:

- a) where no rent assessment has been concluded under the tenancy agreement for at least five years; or
- b) where there has been a significant increase in the price at which tied products or services are supplied under the tied agreement; or
- c) where an event has had a significant impact on the tenant's expected trade.

6.10 In each of these circumstances, the tenant will also have the option to request the offer of an MRO agreement from their pub-owning business. A tenant's rights to pursue the MRO option and the procedure to be followed are explained in Chapters 8 and 10.

Conduct of a rent assessment

6.11 We propose that the Code should state that the rent assessment period will cover a period of at least six months. It will commence with a rent proposal being made by the pub-owning business:

- at least six months before the next rent review date provided for in the tenancy agreement; or
- in response to a request for a rent assessment from the tenant where it has been five years or more since the last rent assessment as provided for in the Pubs Code; or
- where there has been a significant increase in the price of tied products or services, or
- where there has been an event that has a significant impact on the expected trade of the pub.

6.12 Where a rent assessment has been requested by the tenant, the pub-owning business will be required to provide the tenant with a rent review proposal within 14 days of receipt of the request.

6.13 The rent assessment will end either on the rent review date or when a new agreement is concluded, whichever is the later. If later, the new rent will be backdated to the rent review date.

6.14 Other contractual terms and formal or informal negotiations that may affect the rent will not be prohibited by the provisions on rent assessments. These include annual indexation provisions; ad hoc arrangements in support of the tenant; rent changes connected to changes in the nature of the tie; changes related to a benefit in kind; and periodic general business reviews. These will not constitute a formal rent assessment under the Code.

Q.1: Do you have views on the proposed definition of a rent assessment?

7. Delivering the commitment on ‘No Worse Off’

7.1 Provisions on entitlement to a Market Rent Only (MRO) option were included by Parliament during the passage of the Small Business, Enterprise and Employment (SBEE) Act 2015 as a way of delivering the principle that a tied tenant should be no worse off than a free-of-tie tenant.

7.2 The SBEE Act makes the introduction of a statutory MRO procedure a compulsory element of the Pubs Code and of the Pubs Code Adjudicator arrangements.

7.3 Section 43 of the Act establishes the statutory framework within the Pubs Code for the offer of an MRO-compliant agreement to a tied tenant of a pub-owning business. Section 44 lays out the framework under the Code within which the tenant and pub-owning business will seek to negotiate and agree the terms of an MRO agreement; and also establishes the role of the Pubs Code Adjudicator within that procedure.

7.4 Section 45 of the Act provides for the making of regulations to govern the resolution by the Adjudicator of disputes between the parties in relation to the statutory terms or procedure for the requesting, provision, negotiation and concluding of an MRO agreement.

Parallel Rent Assessment

7.5 The SBEE Act includes a discretionary power to require pub-owning businesses to provide their tenants with a parallel rent assessment (PRA).

7.6 Proposals for PRAs were originally included in the SBEE Bill as the then Government’s preferred alternative to a market rent only means of delivering the principle that a tied tenant should be no worse off than a free-of-tie tenant. The Government had earlier proposed in its 2013 consultation that PRAs should be conducted in line with a proforma to be included in the Pubs Code.

7.7 Responses to the 2013 consultation showed that neither pub-owning businesses nor tenants’ groups supported the proposed PRA approach. A typical response from a pub-owning business described the imposition of a formula for the calculation of rent as an unwarranted intervention in the commercial process that would overturn the fundamental principle of free market negotiation. Representatives of tied tenants compared the PRA proposal unfavourably with a free-of-tie option as a way to deliver ‘no worse off’; they felt its inflexibility meant it failed to provide the necessary bespoke information to permit individual tenants to make an informed choice. The All Party Parliamentary Save the Pub Group warned that a parallel free-of-tie rent assessment procedure would overwhelm the Adjudicator with thousands of cases and would set the system up to fail.

7.8 The Government Response in June 2014 explicitly acknowledged that a ‘mandatory free of tie option’ – now known as Market Rent Only (MRO) – would be the quickest, simplest way of delivering the commitment to ensure that a tied tenant was no worse off; that this could be delivered through the usual process of contractual negotiation familiar to all within the industry; and crucially that it would not rely on an artificial construct as would be the case with any form of PRA. However, it feared the consequences of the commercial uncertainty for pub-owning businesses that an MRO option might bring.

7.9 The Government Response therefore attempted to chart a ‘third way’ between a mandatory free of tie option and the prescriptive form of PRA which many respondents had argued would be unworkable. The compromise proposal was a form of PRA that would focus on the particular circumstances of an individual pub. To that end, the SBEE Act specifically leaves it to the Secretary of State to propose regulations defining what should constitute a PRA and makes PRA an optional element for inclusion in the Pubs Code.

7.10 Having considered the provisions of the Act and the options for implementation, the Government has now concluded that there is no need for PRA. PRA was always envisaged as a method of delivering transparency that provided an alternative to a compulsory right to go free of tie. Requiring pub-owning businesses to provide both PRA and MRO assessments would add complexity to the operation of the Code and would impose significant additional burdens. Nor would it be a simple task to merge the two procedures – as PRA works on a ‘bottom up’ basis, demonstrating the value of various tied benefits to the profitability of the pub; whereas MRO involves a straightforward ‘top down’ assessment of the commercial rentable value of the pub.

7.11 For these reasons of cost, complexity and proportionality, the Government has decided not to pursue the discretionary power to introduce a separate PRA procedure within the Pubs Code. The right to request MRO in the circumstances required by the Code will already deliver the principle of ensuring that the rent assessment procedure leaves an existing tied tenant no worse off than a free-of-tie tenant. The information and transparency requirements in the Pubs Code will ensure that prospective tenants have all the information they need in good time to make an informed decision on whether or not to enter into a tied agreement.

7.12 The Government’s detailed proposals on the information that the Code should require pub-owning businesses to provide to tenants and to prospective tenants will be set out in the second part of this consultation.

8. Market Rent Only option

The provisions on when a tenant may request an MRO offer are set out in Regulations 13 to 17 in Part 4 of the Pubs Code (see Annex B).

8.1 Through the Pubs Code, the Government seeks to establish a Market Rent Only (MRO) procedure that delivers high levels of both transparency and certainty; that both parties can plan for in advance; but that also provides important safeguards for tenants whose circumstances change radically through no fault of their own.

8.2 It was the intention of Parliament that tied tenants should have the opportunity when negotiating a renewal of their tenancy agreement or conducting a formal rent assessment to request an offer from their pub-owning business to occupy their pub on a market rent only basis. The Government expects that the vast majority of tenants seeking to move to an MRO agreement will do so at one or other of these times.

8.3 It was also Parliament's intention that tenants should be entitled to the option of an MRO agreement in other limited circumstances where the viability of their business has been adversely affected either by a significant increase in the cost of their tied products or services or by an external event that has had a significant impact on trade.

8.4 The Small Business, Enterprise and Employment (SBEE) Act 2015 reflects these requirements. In conjunction with Code provisions on the circumstances when a tenant may request a rent assessment (as described in paragraph 6.9), it will mean that most tied tenants will never be more than five years away from the right to request an MRO offer (unless they have waived their right – see Chapter 12).

8.5 Regulation 13 sets out the circumstances in which a tenant may request an MRO offer and defines the date on which the MRO procedure will commence.

Renewals

The provisions on the circumstances in which the renewal of an agreement will entitle a tenant to request an MRO offer are set out in Regulations 13 and 14.

8.6 Section 43(7) of the SBEE Act permits the Pubs Code to define a renewal for the purposes of triggering an MRO offer.

8.7 Regulation 14 sets out when a tenant's right to request an MRO offer in relation to the renewal of an agreement will come into effect. Where a tenancy is 'contracted in' under Part II of the Landlord and Tenant Act (LTA) 1954, a tenant will enjoy rights of renewal that are consistent with the provisions for the continuation and renewal of tenancies covered by Part II. This will be on either the day that the tenant receives the pub-owning business' notice under section 25(1) of the LTA; or the day on which the landlord receives the tenant's request under section 26 of the Act.

8.8 Our understanding is that tenants who are contracted-out under the LTA do not normally have any other contractual right to renew their existing tenancy. However, were they to do so, they would be able to request an MRO offer when exercising that contractual right.

8.9 We are not aware of licences containing entitlements to renewal, but if they did then there would be a right to MRO in those circumstances.

Q.2: Are there any other circumstances where a renewal would arise and which should trigger MRO beyond those we have set out?

Rent assessments

The provisions on the circumstances in which a rent assessment will entitle a tenant to request an MRO offer are set out in Regulations 13 and 15.

8.10 Chapter 6 discusses the circumstances in which a rent assessment must be conducted or may be requested by a tenant. Under Regulation 8, a rent assessment must be conducted where a rent review is provided for under the terms of the tenancy agreement or licence. A rent review proposal may also be requested by the tenant where a rent assessment has not been concluded for at least five years; where there has been a significant increase in the price of products or services supplied under the tie; or where an event has had a significant impact on the tenant's expected level of trade.

8.11 Where the rent assessment is in connection with a scheduled rent review, the rent assessment will commence on the date six months before the rent review date in the agreement. The pub-owning business will be required to provide the tenant with a rent review proposal on the date that the rent assessment commences.

8.12 Under Regulations 13 and 15, the tenant will gain the right to request an MRO offer following the receipt of this rent review proposal – so long as the rent proposed by the pub-owning business is higher than the existing rent that the tenant is paying. The tenant will have 14 days from the receipt of the rent review proposal in which to request an MRO offer.

8.13 A tenant may request a rent review proposal at any time after five years have elapsed since the conclusion of the last rent assessment. The pub-owning business will be required to provide the tenant with a rent review proposal within 14 days of the tenant's request; and the rent assessment will commence on the date that the rent review proposal is received by the tenant. If the rent review proposal represents an increase in the rent that the tenant is currently paying, the tenant will then gain the further right to request an MRO offer from the pub-owning business. The tenant will again have 14 days from the receipt of the rent review proposal in which to request an MRO offer.

A significant increase in price

8.14 The definition of a 'significant increase in price' is set out in Regulation 3 in Part 1 of the Pubs Code. The circumstances in which a significant increase in price may entitle a tenant to request a rent assessment are set out in Regulation 8 in Part 3 of the Pubs Code; and to request an MRO offer in Regulations 13 and 16 in Part 4 of the Code.

8.15 Section 43(6) of the SBEE Act requires the Pubs Code to provide tenants with the option of requesting an MRO offer from their pub-owning business where they have experienced a significant increase in the price of any tied product or service that was not reasonably foreseeable when the tenancy was granted or when the last rent assessment was concluded.

Tenant's options following a significant increase in price

8.16 The tenant's rights in respect of a significant increase in price will take effect from the date on which the tenant receives notification of the price increase from the pub-owning business.

8.17 A tenant will potentially have two routes through which to request an MRO offer – either under Regulations 13 and 16 in direct reliance on the price increase; or by first requesting a rent review proposal under Regulation 8 and commencing a rent assessment. In both cases, the same test of whether a significant increase in price has occurred – as set out in Regulation 3 and discussed in detail below – will apply.

8.18 Where the tenant wishes to pursue an MRO option under Regulations 13 and 16 from the outset, the procedure for requesting an MRO offer from the pub-owning business will be as set out in Chapter 10. A tenant who requests an MRO offer in reliance on the price increase will also have the option of requesting a rent review proposal and initiating a rent assessment at the same time. The procedure for commencing a rent assessment following a significant increase in price is set out in Chapter 6. By permitting a tenant to pursue both the rent assessment and MRO options at the same time the Pubs Code will ensure that the tenant has a meaningful comparison of the tied and free-of-tie terms that are on offer. If the tenant ultimately chooses not to pursue the MRO option to the end, the rent assessment procedure will continue to its conclusion.

8.19 However, a tenant will not need to make an immediate decision to request an MRO offer in relation to a significant increase in price. A tenant may initially rely on the provisions in Regulation 8 to request a rent review proposal and to commence a rent assessment. Under Regulations 13 and 15, the receipt of that (tied) rent review proposal will itself give the tenant a right to request an MRO offer from the pub-owning business, so long as the rent review proposal represents an increase in the rent that the tenant is currently paying. The tenant will have 14 days from the receipt of the rent review proposal in which to request an MRO offer. Again, if the tenant ultimately chooses not to pursue the MRO option to the end, the rent assessment procedure will continue to its conclusion. It is important to note that this two-stage right to request does not apply where the MRO offer is first sought in response to the significant increase in price, but a rent assessment is not requested within the same 14 day timeframe. If the tenant requests MRO only and the 14 day period to request a rent assessment expires, the tenant will have lost the right to request a rent assessment as a result of the significant increase in price.

8.20 The Government believes that this is a proportionate approach to balancing the rights to a rent assessment and to an MRO offer in response to a significant increase in price. It will not require a tenant to make an immediate decision to go down the MRO route; but will keep the option open until there has been the opportunity to weigh the merits of pursuing MRO in the light of a new tied offer from the pub-owning business.

Definition of a significant increase in price

8.21 Although the Government anticipates that a 'significant increase in price' will be used infrequently by tenants as a reason to commence the MRO procedure, it nonetheless represents an important protection for tenants against price increases that are not justified by wider regulatory environment or trading conditions.

8.22 As with other ways of initiating the MRO procedure, the Government believes that it is important for both tenants and pub-owning businesses to have certainty about what would and would not constitute a significant increase in price. We have taken into account that different products and services have different significance for different pubs, but that the price of beer is the most significant price for all pubs.

A significant increase in the price of beer

8.23 We propose that a significant increase in the price of beer should be determined by reference to the wholesale market price published by breweries. This provides a clear baseline. We propose that pub-owning businesses should be able to increase the price at which they supply beer to tied tenants by the same percentage as the wholesale price has increased, plus a small margin for tolerance. We propose that this margin should be 5 percentage points. Any increase beyond this would constitute a 'significant increase in price' and entitle the tenant to MRO. The regulations present this in the form of an equation – expressed as $(A - B) + (5\% \times B) + C$ – whose elements are the increase in the wholesale price from when the price was last fixed (from B to A), plus any external costs such as those attributable to tax, duty or regulatory costs (C), plus a margin of five percentage of the original wholesale price (5% of B).

Q.3: Is the wholesale market price for beer the appropriate baseline for determining a significant price increase?

Q.4: Is a five percentage point threshold above any increase in the wholesale price of beer (which will reflect any increases in inflation, taxation and other input costs), the appropriate measure?

A significant increase in the price of other tied products and services

8.24 Other products and services supplied under tied tenancy agreements vary considerably. They can include other alcoholic and non-alcoholic drinks, snacks, other foodstuffs and services such as cleaning. There is no obvious equivalent of the wholesale beer price lists to use as a baseline.

8.25 The Government therefore proposes that, for tied products and services other than beer, a straightforward percentage price increase should be used to determine whether a rise is 'significant'. To reflect the fact that a price rise in products and services which are central to a pub's business value has more impact on a tenant than an increase in more peripheral products and services, we propose a two tier approach. For tied products and services where the cost to the tenant is 20 percent or more as a proportion of the pub's turnover, a significant price increase would be one in excess of 30 percent. For tied products and services where the cost to the tenant is less than 20 percent as a proportion of the pub's turnover, a significant price increase would be one in excess of 40 percent.

8.26 As with beer prices, the Code would, however, reflect the Government's judgment that it is proportionate and equitable to permit pub-owning businesses to pass on increases that are beyond their control without triggering the right for a tenant to request an MRO option. In the case of beer, allowing the wholesale price increase to be passed on will account for this. For other tied products and services, costs that can be passed on would include those rises resulting from increases in taxes, duty or regulatory compliance costs; or inflation (RPI) in the wholesale prices at which the products or services are bought in by the pub-owning business. These would not count towards the price increase calculation.

Q.5: Do you agree that the calculation of a significant increase in price for tied products and services other than beer should exclude any increase in the wholesale price that results from rises in tax, duty, regulatory compliance costs or inflation (RPI)? Are there any other factors that should be excluded?

Q.6: Is this the appropriate way to measure a significant price increase for tied products and services other than beer? If not, please explain the alternative you would recommend.

Q.7: Is a two tier approach appropriate? If so, is the proposed threshold of contributing to 20 percent of the pub's turnover the right one?

Q.8: Are the proposed percentage increases in price (30 percent and 40 percent) appropriate? If not, please explain your reasoning and an alternative.

Timeframe

8.27 The simplest way of calculating price increases for other tied products and services would be by reference to the previous price paid by the tenant. However, our preferred approach is to calculate price increases by reference to the price paid by the tenant for the product or service in question at a previous point in time – for example six months previously. This would permit price fluctuations to be taken into account, and would mean that frequent small price increases that have the same cumulative effect on the tenant as a single significant price increase could not be used to avoid the MRO trigger.

Q.9: Do you agree that a significant price increase should be calculated by reference to the price paid by the tenant at a previous point in time? If so, should that be six months ago?

Significant impact

The circumstances in which a ‘significant impact on trade’ may entitle a tenant to request a rent assessment are set out in Regulation 4 in Part 1 of the Pubs Code; and to request an MRO offer in Regulations 13 and 17 in Part 4 of the Code.

8.28 Under section 43(9) of the SBEE Act the Pubs Code may provide for a tied tenant to have the right to request an MRO option where there has been an event which has a significant impact on the level of trade that – in the absence of that event - they could reasonably have expected; and where the impact is beyond their control; and where it could not have been foreseen.

Tenant’s options following a significant impact

8.29 The tenant’s rights in respect of a significant impact will take effect from the date on which the tenant provides the pub-owning business with a written analysis of the forecast impact on their business for at least the next 12 months.

8.30 As with a significant increase in price, a tenant will potentially have two routes through which to request an MRO offer – either under Regulations 13 and 17 in direct reliance on the significant impact; or by first requesting a rent review proposal under Regulation 8 and commencing a rent assessment. In both cases, the same test of whether a significant impact has occurred – as set out in Regulation 4 and discussed in detail below – will apply.

8.31 Where the tenant wishes to pursue an MRO option under Regulations 13 and 17 from the outset, the procedure for requesting an MRO offer from the pub-owning business will be as set out in Chapter 10. A tenant who requests an MRO offer in reliance on the significant impact will also have the option of requesting a rent review proposal and initiating a rent assessment at the same time. The procedure for commencing a rent assessment following a significant impact is set out in Chapter 6. By permitting a tenant to pursue both the rent assessment and MRO options at the same time the Pubs Code will ensure that the tenant has a meaningful comparison of the tied and free-of-tie terms that are on offer. If the tenant ultimately chooses not to pursue the MRO option to the end, the rent assessment procedure will continue to its conclusion.

8.32 However, a tenant will not need to make an immediate decision to request an MRO offer in relation to a significant impact. A tenant may initially rely on the provisions in Regulation 8 to request a rent review proposal and to commence a rent assessment. Under Regulations 13 and 15, the receipt of that rent review proposal will itself give the tenant a further right to request an MRO offer from the pub-owning business, so long as the rent review proposal represents an increase in the rent that the tenant is currently paying. The tenant will have 14 days from the receipt of the rent review proposal in which to request an MRO offer. Again, if the tenant ultimately chooses not to pursue the MRO option to the end, the rent assessment procedure will continue to its conclusion. As before, this two-stage right to request does not apply where the MRO offer is first sought in response to the trigger event, but a rent assessment is not requested within the same 14 day timeframe. If the tenant requests MRO only and the 14 day period to request a rent assessment expires, the tenant will have lost the right to request a rent assessment as a result of the trigger event.

8.33 The Government believes that this is a proportionate approach to balancing the rights to a rent assessment and to an MRO offer in response to a significant impact. It will not require a

11. MRO Disputes

Provisions governing the resolution of disputes relating to the Market Rent Only procedure are set out in Part 6 of the Pubs Code (see Annex B).

11.1 Section 45 of the Small Business, Enterprise and Employment (SBEE) Act 2015 provides for separate regulations to authorise the Adjudicator to resolve MRO disputes. It is proposed that the powers of the Adjudicator in respect of MRO disputes should be the same as for disputes under the Code as a whole (i.e. sections 48 to 52 of the SBEE Act). Accordingly, the Code provides that MRO disputes can be referred to the Adjudicator for arbitration (see Regulations 26 and 31). All arbitrations will be in accordance with the Arbitration Act 1996 and the Rules of the Chartered Institute of Arbitrators, which set out the powers of the arbitrator and some of the procedural requirements.

11.2 The Adjudicator will arbitrate disputes regarding the MRO requirements in the Act and the Pubs Code. In particular, the Adjudicator will deal with disputes about whether the eligibility criteria for MRO have been satisfied; whether an agreement is MRO-compliant; whether and how the independent assessment of market rent has been completed; and whether any other requirement of the MRO procedure has been complied with (for example, whether a pub-owning business has failed to provide a tied tenant with an MRO offer when required).

11.3 We propose that the fees and costs applicable to MRO disputes will be the same as those that will apply to other arbitrations by the Adjudicator. The second part of this consultation will deal with the fees and costs for arbitration under the Code.

11.4 We propose that both tenants and pub-owning businesses should be able to refer MRO disputes to the Adjudicator; and that the provisions of section 50 of the SBEE Act should apply to the MRO procedure. This will mean that, where the tenancy agreement already provides for arbitration of tenancy related disputes between the parties – and where the pub-owning business has commenced arbitration on a matter which the Pubs Code allows to be referred to the Adjudicator as an MRO dispute – the tenant will be entitled to refer that case to the Adjudicator for resolution under the statutory powers (see Regulation 32).

11.5 Where an MRO dispute is referred to the Adjudicator, we propose that the MRO timetable set out in the Code and described in Chapter 10 should be suspended until the conclusion of the arbitration; and should re-commence on the terms and at the stage in the MRO procedure set out in the Code or as directed by the Adjudicator.

11.6 In relation to the assessment of market rent to be provided by an independent assessor, the parties can refer to the Adjudicator where the independent assessor fails to provide an assessment, and/or where either the pub-owning business or tenant disagrees with the assessment of market rent provided. In the case of a failure to provide the assessment, the Adjudicator can direct further information be provided to the independent assessor, or appoint a new assessor (see Regulation 31(3)). Where the assessment of market rent provided by the independent assessor is disputed, the Adjudicator is required to consider whether the independent assessor has correctly followed the statutory procedure and applied the statutory assumptions. Where the Adjudicator finds that the independent assessor has failed to follow these requirements, Regulation 31(7) provides the Adjudicator with the discretion:

- a) to refer the case back to the independent assessor for further assessment – with an explanation of how the original assessment failed to meet the statutory requirements and / or to follow the Code; or
- b) to substitute the Adjudicator's own assessment of market rent where the Adjudicator judges that there are calculation errors in the rent assessment; or
- c) to consider, in exceptional circumstances, appointing another independent assessor or making any other order as the Adjudicator considers appropriate.

11.7 The proposed disputes procedure is set out in Diagram 2.

Q.17: Do you have any concerns about these proposals for the resolution by the Adjudicator of disputes related to the MRO procedure? If so, please explain your concerns.

understandable to both parties, with minimal potential for dispute. Initial stakeholder views suggested that a figure which relates to the rent of the individual pub would be appropriate.

12.13 Considering the options around rent, there are two decisions to be made: first, which element(s) of the rent in the tied pub model are the appropriate measure (dry/wet rent), and second, what proportion of that measure (25%, 50%, 150%) should be the threshold for a significant investment. The Government seeks views in this consultation on two basic alternative ways of setting the minimum amount of investment.

12.14 One option is that the qualifying threshold for the waiver should be based on the total annual amount payable by the tenant to the pub-owning business under the tenancy or licence agreement. This will be the combined total of both the ‘wet’ and ‘dry’ rent payable by the tenant – in the full financial year or twelve months prior to the signing of the investment agreement. This is a measurable and known figure to both parties and would enable what is a significant investment to be determined in proportion to the characteristics of the pub and the size of the business being operated under the tied relationship. For the purpose of the draft regulations attached to this consultation, we have used this option (see Regulation 12(2)(b)). Other options would be to use the annual dry rent figure, or the rental value of the premises. We would welcome your views.

12.15 The second part of setting the minimum qualifying investment is to determine the proportion of the rent figure used. Regulation 12(2)(b) as currently drafted suggests 100% or 200%, however views are sought on whether either of these or some other percentage is appropriate.

12.16 Determining the threshold for a significant investment requires finding the right balance between the ‘type’ of rent and the percentage of that figure. For example, if the rent amount is based on “the total annual amount payable by the tenant to the pub-owning business”, then a lower proportion or percentage may be appropriate, because it would be based on a larger total amount. However, if based on just the annual dry rent paid, then a higher percentage would be more appropriate because it would be based on a smaller figure. The Government is seeking views on both the type of rent figure which should be used, and the appropriate percentage of that figure.

12.17 The Government does not intend to specify a fixed minimum sum for every qualifying investment but we have considered the latest Royal Institution of Chartered Surveyors quarterly pub benchmarking survey as potential ballpark figures. This survey covers rental figures for the majority of pub-owning businesses in scope of the Code and shows that the average ‘annual rent’ in England and Wales is around £27,000, with regional variations¹. The survey does not specify exactly what payment(s) constitute ‘annual rent’ (and the survey does cover non-tied pubs). However, taking an annual rent figure of £27,000, in this scenario a significant investment of 100% would be £27,000; 200% would be £54,000. These are ‘averages’ so a smaller or larger investment would qualify where the rent of any particular pub was lower/higher. These are ballpark figures which the Government has considered when setting out the options in this consultation and draft Regulations, and give an indication of the likely range of figures (as an average) which may be deemed suitable for the minimum threshold of a significant investment. However, we are seeking views on the options as set out above.

regaining entitlement to a rent assessment, and therefore to the MRO option. Based on information gathered through some initial stakeholder engagement, the Government proposes that the minimum length should be more than five years and the maximum should be set in the range of seven to ten years. The maximum period will need to reflect the minimum value of investment to qualify. See Regulation 12(4).

Q.20: What do you consider should be the maximum length of the waiver period (a) 7 years; (b) 10 years; or (c) another option? Please provide an explanation for your answer and any evidence to support your case.

Other conditions

12.22 The Government considers that the Code should provide safeguards for tied tenants who choose to give up their right to a rent assessment for more than five years and, in effect, their right to an MRO option. The Government proposes that the following additional conditions should apply for an investment waiver to be valid:

- a) The pub-owning business must provide the tied tenant with information regarding the expected return on investment, and the expected impact on trade and/or profit (which may be in the form of a projected Profit and Loss account) such that the tenant can understand any change in payments by the tenant as a result of the proposed investment;
- b) Both parties must agree in writing the terms of the investment and the period of time before the next rent assessment must be provided, i.e. when the waiver period ends; and
- c) The tenant must have taken independent professional advice in respect of the written agreement outlining the terms of the investment.

12.23 It will be important that the tied tenant has a clear understanding of the proposed change in payments by the tenant as a result of the proposed investment and how they have been calculated. This is because a rent assessment as defined in the Code will not have been conducted at the time of agreeing a significant investment and the tenant will not then be entitled to a rent assessment for the period of the investment (except in the circumstances of a significant increase in price or an event beyond the tenant's control which has a significant impact on the level of trade).

12.24 Regulation 12(1) makes it a condition of the waiver that the parties enter into a written agreement relating to the investment. The Government is not proposing that the Code will specify exactly what that written investment agreement should contain beyond the provisions of Regulation 12(3): a description of the investment to make clear that it meets the criteria for a "qualifying investment"; a statement of the length of the 'waiver' being a period no greater than the maximum; clear explanation of any changes to the terms of the original tenancy or licence agreement; and confirmation that the tenant has had independent professional advice. In due course, the Adjudicator may want to provide guidance in the form of a checklist of recommended requirements for an agreement.

12.25 Ultimately, unless sufficient information has been provided regarding the change in payments by the tenant, and unless the tenant has taken independent professional advice on the terms of the investment, the waiver will have no effect (Regulation 12(5)).

Adjudicator’s role in disputes

12.26 The Government intends that any breach of the MRO waiver provision in the Code will be arbitrable by the Adjudicator. As with other arbitrable elements of the Code, the tenant would be able to refer a dispute to the Adjudicator as an alternative to dealing with it through the dispute resolution provisions of their agreement.

12.27 The Adjudicator’s role will be confined to disputes about whether the waiver/ investment agreement meets the conditions specified in the Code – that is, determining whether the investment is a “qualifying investment”, whether the waiver period does not exceed the maximum specified in the Code, and whether the transparency and advice requirements have been met.

12.28 Disputes concerning breaches of the investment agreement such as whether the investment has been made to the level agreed or delivered on time will be contractual disputes and outside the remit of the Adjudicator, not disputes relating to a breach of the Pubs Code.

Q.21: Do you agree with the safeguards proposed by the Government and the role proposed for the Adjudicator? Are there other safeguards that you consider should be provided? If so, what and why?

Assignment

12.29 The Government proposes that if a tied tenant assigns a lease agreement during the term of an MRO waiver, then the prospective assignee should be made aware of this. Therefore the Code provides that before the pub-owning business gives consent to an assignment, it must be satisfied that the prospective assignee has received information about any waiver, including a copy of the written agreement concerning the investment. This is to ensure that the individual taking on the lease is aware that they are bound by the waiver and are not entitled to be offered an MRO option until the next rent assessment which may be more than five years away. See Regulation 12(6) and (7).

Q.22: Do you believe that there are any unintended or undesirable consequences of the proposed definition of “qualifying investment” or of other conditions referred to in this chapter on the MRO investment waiver?

13. Impact

13.1 This first part of the consultation covers the Government’s proposals for delivering one of the two principles of these reforms – that a tied tenant should be no worse off than a free-of-tie tenant. It details the proposed Pubs Code provisions on rent assessments and the option for tenants to request a Market Rent Only (MRO) offer and sets out the Government’s position on parallel rent assessments.

13.2 Our assessment of the impact of delivering the ‘no worse off’ principle and the proposed provisions on rent assessments and MRO and parallel rent assessments has not changed since the primary legislation. The decision not to pursue the discretionary power to introduce a separate parallel rent assessment procedure removes this additional burden.

13.3 The Government wishes to deliver the principles of the Pubs Code without placing undue burdens on businesses. We do not expect the issues discussed in this part of the consultation to result in any additional burdens on business. The proposed waiver from MRO in return for significant investment has the potential to reduce the burden on business by allowing significant investments that benefit both businesses involved. We have not been able to quantify this impact.

13.4 The impact of the remaining elements of the Pubs Code will be considered alongside the second part of this consultation.

14. What happens next?

14.1 This consultation will close on 14 December 2015.

14.2 Following the close of the consultation period, the Government intends to publish all of the responses received, unless specifically notified otherwise (see Chapter 4 - Confidentiality & Data Protection – for full details).

14.3 The Government will publish its response to the consultation as soon as possible and within 12 weeks of both consultations closing, setting out the decisions made in light of the consultation, a summary of the views expressed and reasons for the decisions taken.

14.4 The document will be published on: <https://www.gov.uk/government/consultations/pubs-code-and-adjudicator-market-rent-only-option-and-rent-assessments>.

14.5 Following the consultation, the Pubs Code and other regulations under Part 4 of the Small Business, Enterprise and Employment Act 2015 will be laid in Parliament and will be subject to the affirmative resolution procedure. This means that the legislation will be subject to debate in both the House of Commons and House of Lords before being passed into statute.

A “significant increase”

3.—(1) References in these Regulations to a “significant increase” in the price of a product or service supplied to a tied pub tenant are to be construed as follows.

(2) In relation to beer supplied to the tied pub tenant under a product tie, a significant increase is an increase which is (or is more than)—

where —

A is the wholesale price of the beer at the time of the increase;

B is the wholesale price of the beer at the time the tied pub tenant and the pub-owning business last agreed the price to be payable by the tenant for the beer;

C is any extrinsic price increase to which the beer has been subject since the time the tied pub tenant and the pub-owning business last agreed the price to be payable by the tenant for the beer (disregarding any increase in the wholesale price of the beer).

(3) In relation to a product other than beer, or a service, supplied to the tied pub tenant under a product or service tie, a significant increase is an increase that raises the price to an amount which is (or is more than)—

where —

A is the relevant percentage;

B is the price of the product or service supplied to the tied pub tenant at the beginning of the relevant period;

C is any extrinsic price increase to which the product or service has been subject since the beginning of the relevant period.

(4) In paragraph (3), “the relevant percentage” means—

(a) where the cost to the tied pub tenant of purchasing the product or service during the relevant period is an amount that is 20% or more of the tied pub tenant’s turnover for that period, 120%; and

(b) otherwise, 130%.

(5) In this regulation “the relevant period” means—

(a) the period of 6 months preceding the time at which the tied pub tenant is notified of the increase in the price of the product or service; or

(b) if shorter, the period—

(i) beginning with the time at which the tied pub tenant first agreed the price to be payable by tenant for the product or service, and

(ii) ending with the time at which the tied pub tenant is notified of the increase in the price of the product or service.

(6) In this regulation “extrinsic price increase” in relation to a product or service means an increase in the price of the product or service due to circumstances beyond the control of the pub-owning business such as—

- (a) an increase in the price at which the pub-owning business purchases the product or service;
- (b) an increase in any tax or duty payable by the pub-owning business which arises from the pub-owning business' purchase of the product or service; or
- (c) an increase in any other tax or regulatory cost payable by the pub-owning business which affects the costs of the pub-owning business.

A “trigger event”

4.—(1) For the purposes of Part 4 of the Act (and so of these Regulations) an event is a “trigger event” in relation to a tied pub tenant who has made a request under regulation 8(2)(c) or regulation 13(1), only if (in addition to meeting the conditions in section 43(9)(a) to (c) of the Act) it does not affect any business other than that of the tied pub tenant.

(2) But an event is not a “trigger event” for those purposes if it—

- (a) is connected to the personal circumstances of the tied pub tenant;
- (b) is an extrinsic price increase, within the meaning of regulation 3(6), in the price of a product or service supplied to the tied pub tenant;
- (c) is an event of a kind described at regulations 14 to 16;
- (d) is an event which the tied pub tenant could have reasonably insured against;
- (e) is an event which the tied pub tenant could reasonably have prevented, or the effects of which it could reasonably have mitigated; or
- (f) is an event which results in an increase in the level of trade which is forecast for a period of 12 months or more,

Rent assessments

Duty to conduct a rent assessment

8.—(1) A pub-owning business must conduct a rent assessment—

- (a) in connection with a rent review which is required under the terms of a tenancy or licence of a tied pub of which it is the landlord; or
- (b) where a tied pub tenant of such a pub requests it under paragraph (2).

(2) A tied pub tenant may request a rent assessment if —

- (a) a rent assessment has not been concluded within 5 years prior to the date of the request;
- (b) there is a significant increase in the price at which a product or service which is subject to a product or service tie is supplied to the tied pub tenant; or

- (c) the tied pub tenant can demonstrate that a trigger event has occurred by means of a written analysis of the level of trading which is forecast for a period of 12 months or more beginning with the day on which the tenant makes the request.
- (3) A request under paragraph (2) must be made in writing and—
 - (a) in the case of a request made under paragraph (2)(b), it must be received by the pub-owning business within the period of 14 days beginning with the day on which the tied pub tenant receives notification of the significant increase by the pub-owning business; and
 - (b) in the case of a request made under paragraph (2)(c), it must be received by the pub-owning business within the period of 14 days beginning with the day on which the tied pub tenant sends the written analysis referred to in that paragraph to the pub-owning business.
- (4) The purpose of a rent assessment is to review the rent which is payable by a tied pub tenant under the terms of the tenancy or licence.
- (5) The following, in particular, are not rent reviews for the purposes of paragraph (1)(a)—
 - (a) an annual or other periodic indexation of rent in connection with the price of a tied product or service (whether or not that indexation is provided for in the terms of the tenancy or licence);
 - (b) an increase in rent in return for receiving a corresponding benefit from the pub-owning business;
 - (c) an increase in rent connected to the freeing of the tied pub tenant from a product or service tie;
 - (d) an increase in rent connected with an investment by the pub-owning business—
 - (i) which is not a qualifying investment of the kind described at regulation 12(2), and
 - (ii) whether or not the increase was agreed by the tied pub tenant or required under the tenancy or licence;
 - (e) any discussions in respect of rent increases which are carried out within a review of the business provided for under the terms of the tenancy or licence.
- (6) Paragraph (1) is subject to regulation 12(1).

The rent review proposal

- 9.—(1) Where a pub-owning business is required to conduct a rent assessment under regulation 8(1), the pub-owning business must send the tied pub tenant a document (“the rent review proposal”) containing—
- (i) a proposal for the rent which is to be paid under the tenancy or licence at the end of the rent assessment (the “new rent”);
 - (ii) the information specified in Schedule 2;
 - (iii) such other information as may be required to ensure that the tenant is able to negotiate, in an informed manner, the new rent.
- (2) The rent review proposal must be sent to the tied pub tenant—
- (a) in the case of an assessment conducted under regulation 8(1)(a), at least 6 months before the date on which the rent review is required to begin;
 - (b) in the case of an assessment conducted under regulation 8(1)(b), within the period of 14 days beginning with the day on which the tied pub tenant requests the assessment.
- (3) The pub-owning business must prepare the rent review proposal in accordance with the RICS guidance and a suitably qualified valuer registered with the RICS must confirm that in writing.

Conduct of the rent assessment

- 10.—(1) A rent assessment begins on the day on which a pub-owning business provides a rent review proposal to the tied pub tenant in accordance with regulation 9.
- (2) A rent assessment must be conducted in accordance with the RICS guidance.
 - (3) The pub-owning business must comply with any reasonable request for further information which is relevant for the negotiation of the new rent and which is made by the tied pub tenant or by a person acting on behalf of the tied pub tenant.

(4) Where the pub-owning business cannot comply with a request for further information under paragraph (3), the pub-owning business must provide to the tied pub tenant a reasonable explanation why the information required cannot be provided.

(5) Where a pub-owning business is required to conduct a rent assessment under regulation 8(1)(a), the pub-owning business must ensure that an appropriately qualified person who is involved in the preparation of the rent review proposal visits the tied pub within the period of 3 months beginning with the day on which the rent review proposal is provided to the tied pub tenant.

(6) The pub-owning business must advise the tied pub tenant to obtain independent professional advice in connection with the new rent before the tenant agrees that rent.

(7) Before the new rent is agreed by the tied pub tenant, the tied pub tenant and the pub-owning business must agree, in writing, how any recoverable rent is to be paid to the tied pub tenant or to the pub-owning business, as the case may be, at the end of a rent assessment where—

- (a) the rent payable under the tenancy or licence is adjusted as a result of the rent assessment; and
- (b) the rent assessment ends—
 - (i) after the rent review date, or
 - (ii) more than 6 months after the day on which the rent review proposal is received by the tied pub tenant.

(8) The tied pub tenant's agreement to the new rent must be given in writing.

(9) A suitably qualified valuer who is registered with the RICS must confirm that the rent assessment has been conducted in accordance with guidance issued by that institution.

(10) The “recoverable rent” is the amount of the difference between—

- (a) the rent which is payable under regulation 11(1) during the rent recovery period; and
- (b) the rent which is payable under regulation 11(2) for that period.

(11) The “rent recovery period” is the period which—

- (a) begins—
 - (i) in the case of a rent assessment conducted under regulation 8(1)(a), with the rent review date,
 - (ii) in the case of a rent assessment conducted under regulation 8(1)(b), with the day after the period of 6 months beginning with the day on which the rent review proposal was received by the tied pub tenant; and
- (b) ends with the day on which the rent assessment ends.

(12) In these Regulations, the “rent review date” is the date from which the terms of the tenancy or licence require the rent to be payable following a rent review.
